WATER CONVENTION
Introduction to the Practical Guide

Objective: support countries in the design and drafting of agreements or other arrangements for transboundary waters that are effective, adaptable and sustainable.

Focus: on content and drafting options rather than on process.

Target audience: State representatives, legal and technical experts, decision-makers involved in negotiation of agreements or other arrangements for transboundary waters, the staff of river basin organizations, regional organizations, and other stakeholders working on transboundary cooperation and water diplomacy are the target audience of the Practical Guide.

Structure of the Practical Guide

- 6 thematic modules: Preamble; General provisions; Substantive content; Procedural features; Implementation, institutional framework and dispute settlement; Final provisions.
- Building blocks provisions/issues that countries may consider including within each module
- Key aspects: help define content of building blocks

- Introductory text to each building block, setting out its context and rationale;
- Key considerations, which explain different approaches that might be taken within the arrangements, and the implications thereof;
- Examples from treaty practice that illustrate how to frame a particular provision; and
- Supporting resources, assist in further developing the content
Overview of building blocks that might be included in an arrangement
How to use the Practical Guide

1. Identify thematic modules to structure the arrangement or the agreement
2. Consider which building blocks to include from each module
3. Decide upon the type of provision to develop within a particular building block
4. Rely on support resources for further details, justification and explanations
1. There are several benefits to developing agreements or arrangements for transboundary water cooperation.

2. The process of developing an agreement or other arrangement is itself an important outcome.

3. Arrangements can take many shapes and forms.

4. Consider existing national and international law and practices.
