Developing Capacities, Improving Training: the Role of International Cooperation

ROGÉRIO CAMPOS, PH.D
PROFESSOR OF WATER RESOURCES AT UNINTA - BRAZIL
This Presentation

• On the Importance of Developing Capacities in Water Resources;
• Tools for Internationally Cooperated Capacity Building in Water Resources;
• International Cooperation for Developing Capacity in Water Resources.
On the Importance of Developing Capacities with International Cooperation in WR

- Interchange of water cultures;
- Interchange of knowledges;
- Possibility to catch the “best” specialists in the World;
Tools for Internationally Cooperated Capacity Building in Water Resources

• Distance Learning Tools;
• Virtual Laboratories;
• Information Communication Technologies;
• Communities of Practice;
• Presentia...
International Cooperation for Developing Capacity in Water Resources

“By 2030, expand international cooperation and capacity-building support to developing countries in water- and sanitation-related activities and programmes, including water harvesting, desalination, water efficiency, wastewater treatment, recycling and reuse technologies”

— 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (UN)
International Cooperation for Developing Capacity in Water Resources

- Networks of scientific and/or academic institutions;
- Personal voluntary collaboration;
- Network of institutions to receive training;
- Professionals/Personnel target;
- Agreements between institutions or countries;
- Language?
Thank You – Merci

Rogerio.Campos@uninta.edu.br
+55 85 98848-0466